QUARREL PRECEDES FATAL SHOOTINGS

Lewis Bennison, Prominent Vaudeville Actor, Partner in Act, Believed Crazed by Jealousy.

BY JERRY QUISENBERRY, United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, June 9.—A melodramatic shooting in a roof bungalow atop a fashionable apartment in the city brought a sordid end today to the career of Margaret Lawrence, one of the foremost actresses on the American stage.

In a room littered with whisky bottles and thrown into wild disorder, police found her dead from two bullet wounds. Near-by lay the body of Lewis Bennison, 50, prominent Los Angeles actor and member of the Lambs Club, with a single bullet in the left breast.

Bennison, police said, had shot Miss Lawrence, then committed suicide.

Both victims of the tragedy were widely known on the stage, but the actress' reputation was the greater in her profession. She had been a Broadway star for 15 years and in that time had figured in many of the theater's greatest successes.

Bennison recently had been playing with her in a vaudeville sketch.

Quarrel Over "Date."

The story behind the shooting was reconstructed by police from a statement given them by Miss Gertrude Chalmers, a close friend of the actress, who discovered the bodies when she called at Miss Lawrence's apartment today.

Bennison and Miss Lawrence had been in a heated quarrel last night, according to the young woman, who was visiting Miss Lawrence at the time. As Miss Chalmers prepared to leave Miss Lawrence turned to Bennison and informed him that she was going with her friend to spend the night.

"If you do, I'll kill you," Bennison was quoted as saying.

Miss Chalmers, eager to get away, left the roof bungalow. At the elevator she hesitated a moment, believing the actress might follow, but when she did not appear, the friend descended and started home.

Apparently the quarrel continued after she left, both the man and woman evidently had been drinking heavily, and police believe the liquor had much to do with the subsequent course of events.

At any rate, just as dawn was coming up over the roof of the tall apartment and casting its first rays into the tiny bungalow overlooking Central park, Bennison is believed to have taken a revolver and fired two bullets into the chest of Miss Lawrence.

They appeared to have been fired from across the room, investigators said.

Stabbed With Scissors.

The actor then sat down, wrote a brief note and then, apparently, reached for his gun again and fired a shot into his left breast.

The bullet apparently did not take immediate effect, for the revolver was some distance from where his body dropped to the floor. But beside Bennison was a long, sharp pair of scissors, their tips stained with blood, and in his breast were several stab wounds.

Police believe he tried to hasten

Council Majority Goes on Record For Larger City

Eighteen Members Unreservedly in Favor of Annexation Proposal of Alderman Gilliam.

Eighteen members of city council Sunday night were unreservedly on record as being in favor of the new annexation proposal of Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, of the 12th ward and chairman of the charter revision committee of city council. This is a clear majority of the 35 members, many of whom could not be reached by The Constitution for an expression and makes certain passage of the measure when it comes before council at the session to be held June 17.

This means that only ratification of the legislature will be necessary to annex the 22.1 square miles of territory to the city, thus pushing the total area to 563 square miles and increasing the population of the city at least 25,000, according to estimates.

Four of the five members of the charter revision committee favored the proposal Saturday and Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, author of a previous blanket annexation paper, also sanctioned the Gilliam paper. This means that the charter revision committee will report the proposal favorably at a meeting of the committee to be held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and that it will go to city council at its regular semi-monthly session June 17 for ratification. The majority of council members who approved the plan Sunday guaranteed that the measure will go to Mayor L. N. Ragsdale for his signature and that members of the Sunday night were Alderman P. L. Moon, of the second; Councilman J. E. Turner and Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second; Councilman J. W. Rountree and Charles L. Chosewood, of the third; Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the fourth; Alderman Allen C. Cook, of the fifth; Councilman Tom Morris, of the fifth; Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth; Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, of the seventh; Councilman Wiley L. Moore, of the seventh; Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, of the eighth; Councilman Robert Cobb, Jr., of the ninth; Councilman Garland Cooper, of the tenth; Councilman George Lyle, of the eleventh and Councilman Tom Smith, of the twelfth.

Those In Favor.

In addition to Mr. Gilliam and Mr. White, those who were unreservedly on record in favor of the measure Sunday night were Alderman P. L. Moon, of the second; Councilman J. E. Turner and Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second; Councilman J. W. Rountree and Charles L. Chosewood, of the third; Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the fourth; Alderman Allen C. Cook, of the fifth; Councilman Tom Morris, of the fifth; Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth; Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, of the seventh; Councilman Wiley L. Moore, of the seventh; Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, of the eighth; Councilman Robert Cobb, Jr., of the ninth; Councilman Garland Cooper, of the tenth; Councilman George Lyle, of the eleventh and Councilman Tom Smith, of the twelfth.

Several of those who did not wholeheartedly endorse the proposal Sunday declared they had not given the paper thorough study and therefore were not in a position to indicate how they will vote when it is sounded in council. They indicated, however, that they are in favor of annexations which are "equitable and fair."

The plan contemplates annexation of portions of Haynes Manor, the Collier estate, Peachtree Hills, Brookwood Hills, Buckhead, Druid Hills, the Ansley Park and East Lake golf courses; Lakewood and other valuable territory to the south including the John A. White and L. N. Ragsdale parks.

Proponents of the paper declare that to a fair and equitable measure designed to bring into the city highly developed areas adjacent to

PROHIBITION GUNS TAKE ANOTHER LIFE IN ROAD HOLD-UP

Sawed-Off Shotguns Roar Before Man Can Bring Car To Stop; No Liquor Found.

International Falls, Minn., June 9.—(P)—Henry Virkula, 41, Big Falls, merchant, was shot and killed while driving home in an automobile with his wife and two children near here last night, when he failed to stop at the command of border patrolmen, assigned to liquor smuggling duty.

County police who launched an investigation said there was no evidence of liquor in Virkula's automobile. Two empty bottles were found but proved to have been medicine containers, police said.

Virkula's wife claimed her husband was shot before he had an opportunity to stop his automobile. She said the machine traveled little more than 10 feet after the command was given, when a fusillade of bullets penetrated the car.

E. J. White, appointed to the border patrol forces a few months ago, admitted firing the shots which killed Virkula. White was accompanied by E. V. Seervin, also a newly-appointed border patrolman. Both officers have been temporarily suspended while the shooting is being investigated.

County Attorney David Hariburt, of Koochiching county declared charges will be preferred against White if a coroner's inquest discloses the shooting was without cause.

The shooting occurred about 11:30 o'clock last night. The slain man operated a confectionery at Big Falls.

The shooting was done with sawed-off shotguns. The slain man was dented with shot in about 26 places.

Superior officers of the two patrolmen said that officers have been warned to shoot only in self-defense. The two patrolmen's duties consisted chiefly of watching for liquor runners from Canada. The shooting occurred within 15 miles south of the Canadian border.

RALPH A. PARKER DIES AS RESULT OF AUTO SMASH

Toledo, Ohio, June 9.—(Special).—Ralph A. Parker, 45, who was in charge of Cadillac auto distribution for the state of Georgia from 1922 to 1927, died early Sunday in Minneapolis as a result of injuries received in an auto accident Friday night, according to word received here.

Mr. Parker had his headquarters in Atlanta, where he was well known. He was born and reared in Toledo and devoted all of Sunday afternoon to an executive meeting in which matters of policies were discussed.

The officials, following this meeting, stated that they were unable at the time to make public the work

Civilians of World Gather in Atlanta For Opening of Three-Day Convention

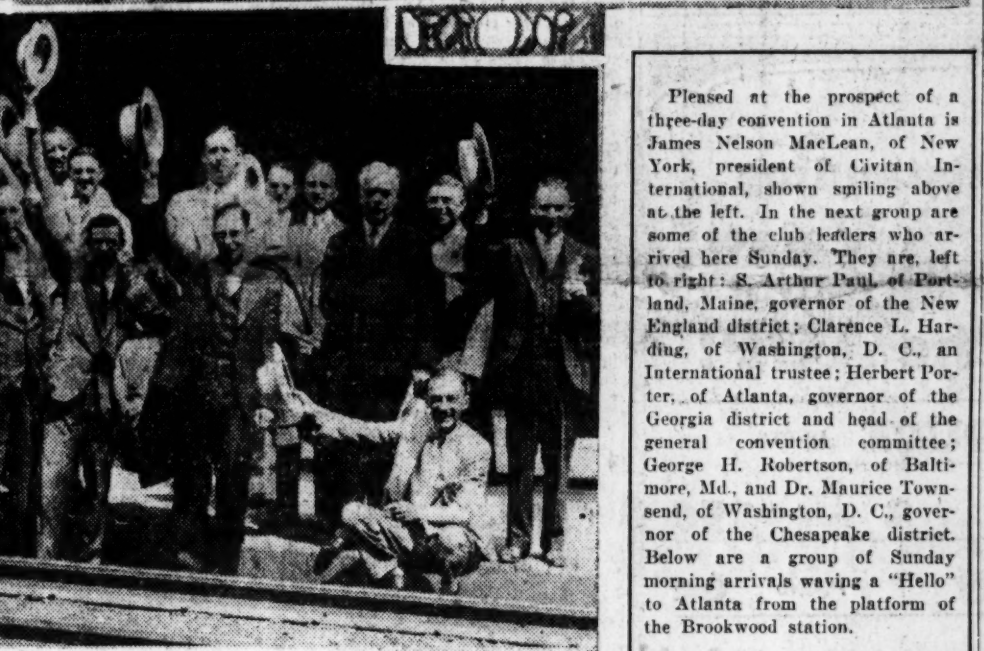

Atlanta is to be for three days the capital of Civitan International as more than 1,000 delegates from hundreds of Civitan clubs meet here in national convention, the first session of which opens at 10 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel.

Sunday the vanguard of this thousand came, by road and by rail, from Los Angeles and Bangor, from Miami and Vancouver, and from scores of intermediate points, they came until Sunday night found more than 400 already on hand and the early morning trains of today scheduled to bring in the rest of the men who represent one of the nation's great civic groups.

The officers, headed by James Nelson MacLean, of New York, president, and Robert W. Brooks, of St. Louis, the first vice president, and the members of the board of trustees, were here ahead of the rank and file and devoted all of Sunday afternoon to an executive meeting in which matters of policies were discussed.

The officials, following this meeting, stated that they were unable at the time to make public the work

Ramsay MacDonald To Visit United States on Mission Of Anglo-American Amity

Premier Desires Personal Conversation With President Hoover To Strengthen Good Will.

London, June 10.—(Monday).—(P) The Daily Herald, organ of the labor party, today says the prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, desires personal consultation with President Hoover on Anglo-American relations and is willing to go to the United States for that purpose.

The Herald says that the decision to take the first opportunity to open this direct contact. It was said that the matter probably would be discussed at the meeting of the cabinet later today at Downing street. There is reason to surmise, the newspaper says, that Mr. MacDonald's view of the desirability of direct personal contact is shared by President Hoover and his advisers and that they will do everything to facilitate a meeting.

The Herald, while, of course, not an official spokesman for the labor government, is the leading exponent of the labor cause among the London press.

GUNBOATS STEAM TO RESCUE TRIO IN CRIPPLED SHIP

Flight May Be Resumed If Mechanics Are Able To Repair Engine of Junkers.

HEAD WINDS CUT SWERIGE'S SPEED

Voyage Begins Auspiciously But Radio Soon Begins Sending Out Calls for Assistance.

Reykjavik, Iceland, June 10.—(Monday).—(P)—The Swedish seaplane Swerige was forced down at Skaptaros on the south coast of Iceland by a broken gasoline line.

They had previously sent out repeated calls for help and two gunboats, the Thor and Odin, set out from Reykjavik to aid them.

Although Captain Albin Ahrenberg and his two companions fell short of reaching this city where they were to refuel for continuance of their flight to New York they were able to reach a safe haven despite the crippled motor. Their Junkers monoplane had encountered strong head winds after passing the Faroe islands, half way from Norway, but by means of their radio they were able to keep the world informed of the situation.

One of these messages said that prospects for further flight were uncertain. The head winds had already put the plane behind its schedule, which was designed to demonstrate the feasibility of regular commercial air service over the northern route, and Captain Ahrenberg had planned only a two-hour stop here.

Delay of at least a day appeared certain early this morning. The Icelandic patrol cruiser, Fylla, left with gasoline for the stranded fliers but there was no expert mechanical assistance available. However, Captain Ahrenberg carried with him Mechanic Hans Ljunglund beside Lieutenant Axel Floden.

It was not expected that the aviators would reach here until afternoon. The Junkers monoplane left Stockholm early yesterday morning on a projected flight to New York with several intermediate stops. Bergen was reached in a few hours and two extra passengers were dropped. All seem to go well on the sea leg until after passing the Faroe islands, midway to Iceland, when strong headwinds were encountered.

After refueling in Iceland, Captain Ahrenberg had planned to continue to Iqvit, Greenland, and thence to Hans Ljunglund.

His companions are Lieutenant Axel Floden and Mechanic Hans Ljunglund.

"PUP" M'WHORTER, EX-TECH PLAYER, IS SHOT BY OFFICER

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 10.—(P) W. F. "Pup" McWhorter, former football star on local prep school football teams, was shot and probably fatally wounded here early this morning.

Bob Barker, North Carolina policeman, who attempted to arrest McWhorter, also was injured seriously. Ivis Stuart, local airplane pilot, companion of McWhorter, was injured on charges growing out of the melee.

Barker told his vital attendants the trouble arose when a lie was told to attract McWhorter and Stuart. The men attacked him, Barker said, and after a 10-minute fight the officer fired three bullets into McWhorter's chest.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 1

A great ocean liner was nearing France. Aboard was Tarzan of the Apes, returning home to his African jungle. Thinking, rather sorrowfully, over the past few weeks, he wondered if he had acted wisely. For he had renounced his birthright and the woman he loved. To a man to whom he owed nothing.

Tarzan's thoughts drifted from the past to the future. He tried to look forward with pleasurable sensations to the scenes of his birth and boyhood. But who now would there be to welcome him in the fierce, cruel jungle where he had spent twenty of his twenty-two years? Only Tantor, the elephant, could he call friend.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The others would hunt him or flee from him, as had been their way in the past. Not even the apes of his own tribe would extend the hand of fellowship. Civilization had become distasteful to him. He longed for the old jungle life. Yet he looked with little relish upon the future he had mapped out for himself.

MRS. POWERS' FORMER AID JAILED AT MACON

Man Accused as Accomplice in Arson Plots Brought Back.

Macon, Ga., June 9.—(P)—Two deputies returned to Macon at 1 o'clock this morning, with Claude P. Burnham, 23, arrested on a warrant charging arson. He is wanted here for questioning in regard to the burning of two buildings owned by Mrs. J. C. Powers, aged landlady who now is held in connection with the death of James W. Parks.

soon afterwards by fire. The fires were followed by the violent death of E. E. Valentine, the insurance agent who wrote the policy on Burnham's life.

Following Burnham's disappearance, Mrs. Powers collected the premiums she had paid on his policy.

The woman was arrested with Earl Manchester, one of her roomers, several weeks ago, after Parks was found shot to death. Manchester confessed he killed Parks when Mrs. Powers offered him $1,000 of the $14,000 she would collect on an insurance policy she held on Parks' life.

The officers left here at 4 o'clock Saturday morning in an automobile. The arrest was made in Jacksonville, and they left at once for Macon. Burnham offered no resistance.

"Propositions."

On the way Burnham is said to have told of "propositions" that Mrs. J. C. Powers made to him.

Mrs. Powers paid the premium on a $5,000 insurance policy on Burnham's life. There were two fires about that time in which two residences owned by Mrs. Powers were destroyed. Then owned by the woman were destroyed who wrote the policy on Burnham's life, was found shot to death. Burnham had disappeared. Mrs. Powers later collected from the insurance company only that part of the premium that she had paid, it was stated.

With the arrest of Burnham, the officers claim to have tightened the chain of evidence around Mrs. Powers. Burnham told the deputies that one night he was given barbecue sandwiches with a tainted odor. He didn't eat any. Another night he said he found a gas jet turned on in his room, though there was certain the jet was closed when he retired.

According to the sheriff's office a residence of Mrs. Powers on the Houston road burned on the night of May 17, 1925. At that time Burnham was attending business college here on money supplied by Mrs. Powers.

Twelve days after the fire he showed up at the college, according to the officers "with a wad of money."

Burnham went to St. Petersburg, Fla., and claims to have been followed there by Mrs. J. C. Powers, he said.

Mrs. Powers proposed a plot against another's life.

TRIAL MAY BE POSTPONED.

Macon, Ga., June 9.—(P)—Trial of Earl Manchester, charged with the murder of James W. Parks and in connection with which Mrs. J. C. Powers is held as an accessory before the fact, may not begin until June 24, it was indicated today by Solicitor General Charles H. Garrett.

The solicitor stated that so far as the state is concerned the trial is ready for trial, but he said Elmer Manchester, brother of Earl, who came here from Rochester, Mich., has suggested that another week be given for preparation of the defense.

He said that in the meantime he might be able to employ additional counsel.

Pope F. Brock, one of the best known lawyers in Macon, and James W. Schell, have already been designated by Judge H. A. Mathews as counsel for Manchester.

"I shall confer with the lawyers for Manchester on Monday and at that time the date of the trial will be definitely fixed, but it probably will be delayed a week beyond the tentative date, June 17, that had been fixed."

HOOPER EXTRA SESSION PROGRAM IMPERILED

Washington, June 9.—(P)—The extra-session program of President Hoover is at stake this week in the senate, which has been one too friendly to the administration.

The farm relief bill, muddled on Hoover lines by conferees of the senate and house, comes to a vote in the senate tomorrow or Tuesday with the fight of the democrats and republican independents to reinstate the controversial export devaluation provision making the rest doubtful.

With the farm relief out of the way, the conference report adjusting differences between the senate and house on the census-reapportionment bill will be taken up. The house, which has been conforming steadily to the desires of the White House, will take up this report tomorrow and immediate approval is forecast despite the stormy sessions of last week on this legislation.

National Origins Muddle.

The third recommendation of Mr. Hoover for the extra session—suspension of the national origins immigration quota basis which goes into effect July 1—is to follow the vote in the senate on the other two legislative propositions of the administration. The result on the immigration contest is very much in doubt, with both parties divided on it.

If the farm relief and census-reapportionment measures are sent to the White House this week by the senate in their present form, reported as acceptable to the president, republican

Merciless Texas Sun Gives Bathing Beauties Olive Skins

MANY ARE OVERCOME DURING PAGEANT

Galveston, Texas, June 9.—(P)—A bathing suit revue, the most stupendous attraction of Galveston's fourth international beauty pageant, was staged at the beach here today while a merciless sun beat upon 44 belles from this country and abroad in a two-mile-long parade.

Excited by the adulation of thousands and fatigued by a 94-degree temperature, several of the bathing beauties were overcome. Blistered backs, arms and legs were in evidence before the belles had traversed much of the route.

The principal sufferers were those who failed to carry umbrellas.

"Miss United States" will be chosen by the seven judges tomorrow, and on Tuesday "Miss Universe" will be named.

The beauty candidates are not forgetting to keep in good physical condition while enjoying the round of festivities incidental to their sojourn here. A breakfast of toast, fruit juice or cereal is the standard order, especially for those girls who are inclined to be overweight. Because of the dinners and banquets to which the guests are invited many are experiencing difficulty in keeping "down to their weight."

Bishop C. E. Byrne, of the Galveston Roman Catholic diocese, who presided over several European beauties entering the pageant through letters sent them several weeks ago and waged relentless war against the show, declined to comment on the event today.

THOMASVILLE HIGH HOLDS GRADUATION WITH EXERCISES

Thomasville, Ga., June 9.—(Special) Commencement exercises of Thomasville High school were held Friday evening in the auditorium of McIntyre Park school building.

The invocation was by Rev. Charles H. Meeks, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Lawrence Walker, president of the class, then introduced the several members on the program.

The salutatory was delivered by Walter Whidden, who, with a grade of 92, won second honor in his class, and was followed by Robert Robinson, the class orator, his subject being "Pioneers."

Holland Patterson read the class poem, Gladys Meeks followed with a reading and then Mary Addis Riley read the class prophecy.

THREE MEN HELD AFTER SHOOTING NEAR WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., June 9.—(Special.) Jodie Crews, Cliff Crews and Basil Dankin are being held in the Pierce county jail awaiting trial in Pierce county court before Judge M. D. Dickerson, of the Waycross circuit, on charges growing out of the shooting of Benjamin Daughtry, citizen of Waycross, on the Blackshear-Alma highway about 12 miles from Blackshear.

The shooting occurred about 8 o'clock at night. Daughtry was returning to his home near Alma when Jodie and Cliff Crews and Dankin are alleged to have driven up in an automobile and stopped Daughtry, who was riding his mule at the time. Cliff Crews and Dankin are alleged to have held the mule while Jodie Crews jabbed a pistol against Daughtry's neck and fired. The bullet entered on the right side of his neck, narrowly missing his jugular vein, ranged downward and came out on the left side.

Archaeologist Slain.

Jerusalem, June 9.—(P)—The French archaeologist, Drouot, a high official in the antiquities department of the Syrian government, was reported today to have been murdered with three policemen at Tel Abiad, Syria. The murderers escaped and it was supposed that their motive was to remove the recent attempts of M. Drouot to suppress smuggling of antiquities out of Syria.

done in the session but did say that "action of great importance to the organization" had been taken. They further stated that the effect of Sunday's executive session would be apparent during the next three days on the floor of the convention.

Tour of City.

While the officers, trustees and some of the district governors were engaged in the meeting some 150 or 200 of the early arrivals were taken on an informal motor tour, an affair which was not scheduled on the official program, opening today, but which proved extremely pleasurable.

As the visitors were driven about the city they were afforded the unusual opportunity of seeing Atlanta's beautiful harbor and the city's bright sunshine and washed by five-minute showers only to emerge into a blinding sun.

Included in Sunday's other pre-convention features was a dinner given to the officers, trustees and district governors at the Capital City Country Club by the directors and officers of the Atlanta Civitan Club.

Mr. McLean made a brief address over radio station WSB shortly after 10 o'clock expressing his pleasure at being in Atlanta and touching briefly on some of the principles of the Civitan organization.

The first session this morning will be opened with the invocation by the Rev. W. W. McManis, rector of All Saints' Episcopal church. Addresses of welcome will then be given by Governor L. G. Hardman, Mayor N. Ragsdale, Herbert Porter, president of the Georgia district; Herbert H. Hopkins, president of the Atlanta Civitan Club; Frank R. Topping, of Sacramento, Calif., governor of the California district, will reply to these speeches.

President's Address.

Mr. McLean will then be heard in the annual presidential address. It is expected that at this time he may make some announcement of policies adopted or discussed in the Sunday executive meeting. The remainder of the session will be devoted to reports of the secretary and treasurer, Claude Hagen, of Birmingham, and the field director, Arthur Cundy, of Mayfield, Ky. The report of the convention committee, the reading of communications and the naming of new committees will bring the first meeting to a close.

Four special luncheon meetings will convene concurrently. These groups are the international officers and trustees; the district governors and lieutenant governors; the club secretaries and the club treasurers. At each of these meetings various problems of peculiar interest to the group concerned will be discussed.

Banquet Tonight.

The biggest entertainment feature of today's program will be the annual banquet set for 7:30 on the garden terrace at the Biltmore, this to be followed by the convention dance at 10 o'clock in the ballroom. In addition on a special entertainment feature for the wives of the delegates will be a bridge tea at 3 o'clock at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Tuesday's session will be marked by what club leaders say will be a very important discussion of the constitution and by-laws with a view to making possible changes. The club as a whole has long championed the "get out the vote" movement at elections, city, state and national and many members now advocate a change in the by-laws and constitution making compulsory for every Civitan to vote if he cares to maintain his membership in the club. The election of officers and the election of the 1930 convention city will take place Wednesday.

RAMSAY MACDONALD TO VISIT AMERICA

sultation with Arthur Henderson, his new minister of foreign affairs and a veteran in the councils of the labor party.

It was realized that it was probably more difficult for President Hoover to leave Washington than for Prime Minister MacDonald to leave London and therefore the latter is prepared to make the voyage.

If the meeting is arranged, the British cabinet will likely take the view that it is essential that Canada be represented and Premier MacKenzie, king of Canada, probably would be invited to join the conversation.

The Herald's announcement came close on the heels of a suggestion made by the Sunday Observer yesterday that this very meeting, with the Canadian premier included, be arranged. The Observer said that it might settle once and for all the relations between the British empire and the United States and extend "the undefined frontier between the United States and Canada to the seas dividing the two countries."

The Observer alleged that Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, of the late conservative government, had contemplated such an American visit in event that his party was returned to power in the general elections of May 30. Mr. Baldwin was said to have had the approval of his foreign secretary, Sir Austen Chamberlain, in the project.

London, June 10.—(Monday).—Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, interviewed by the Daily Herald, emphasized the immense consequences the new labor government of Great Britain attaches to relations with the United States.

The newspaper today quotes him as saying, "We shall do everything in our power to strengthen the bonds between the two great English speaking peoples."

his death by plunging the scissors into his body.

Two notes, found near the bodies, read:

"The sunset has a heart. Look for us there." "Please notify Mr. Musson of the Lamb Club."

Bennison and Miss Lawrence had been dead about eight hours when Miss Chair returned to the apartment about noon today, a medical examiner estimated. The actress was attired in a negligee. Bennison had removed his shoes.

Miss Chair notified police immediately and they arrived shortly after noon. They were satisfied it had been a case of murder and suicide, they said.

Had Married Twice.

Miss Lawrence was 38 and had been married twice. Her first husband was Orson D. Munn, New York patent attorney and son of the founder of the Scientific American magazine. The marriage lasted eight years, during which two daughters were born to the couple, and ended in 1922 when Miss Lawrence was granted a divorce.

Two years later she was married to Wallace Edginger, comedian, at Los Angeles. She brought suit for divorce against him last November.

Miss Lawrence last appeared in "Possession." She was recently suspended by Equity.

Bennison is said to be married, his family living in California.

The precise motive behind the shooting was left in doubt, police said tonight, by the tangled circumstances in the lives of Miss Lawrence and Bennison.

Irate Carolinians Attempt To Lynch Labor Organizer After Killing of Policeman

Group of Twelve Disperse As Officers Outtalk Effort at Mob Law; Deputy Is Shot.

Gastonia, N. C., June 9.—(AP)—After a wild ride from Spartanburg, S. C., during which only the ability of two city policemen and a city councilman to outtalk the leaders of a crowd of 12 men saved him from possible lynching, Fred Erwin Beal, southern organizer for National Textile Workers' Union, today was in a county jail "somewhere in North Carolina." With him was K. O. Byers, who was arrested with him at Spartanburg, on charges of complicity in the murder of Chief of Police O. F. Aderholt, of Gastonia.

Beal and Byers, arrested at the request of local police, were on route from Spartanburg to jail in charge of City Councilman Robert Craig and Patrolmen H. C. Jackson and Thomas Rankin, when the officers were stopped by 12 men in South Gastonia. The men, officers reported, demanded Beal and Byers. The officers and the city councilman refused to give up the prisoners and began talking to the leaders of the crowd. Finally the officers were allowed to proceed with their prisoners.

COUNCIL MAJORITY FAVORS LARGER CITY

the city and which enjoy all the conveniences furnished by Atlanta.

"We feel that the map as prepared is not discriminatory in the least, but that annexation will be advantageous to Atlanta as well as to the sections which it is proposed to bring within the city limits," Mr. Gilliam declared.

"One of the objections of large property holders is that their property has not been developed. Some of them have held the property for many years just awaiting its enhancement. They have refused to sell it at any price. It is valuable. They are getting every advantage and convenience which Atlanta can offer and yet are not paying any of the bill."

"Unless Atlanta acts to protect herself at the coming meeting of the legislature, other southern cities will pass her in population and her prestige will be threatened."

"Druid Hills territory has a per-square mile population of 1,288; Buckhead and the Peachtree district, which are included in the proposal have a population of 760; the south-eastern section, which includes the cities of Hapeville and College Park have a population of 800 to 700, respectively, figured on the same basis. There are no grounds to the contention that the population is too sparse."

Others Favor Proposal.

Nearly a score of other members of council subscribed to the contentions of Mr. Gilliam, as they declared they would vote for the measure and take the floor of council if necessary to fight for its passage.

R. W. Torres, secretary and engineer of the city planning commission is expected to have letters today from various cities showing recent annexation.

He wrote the letters at the request of Mr. Gilliam to Birmingham, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Miami, Pittsburgh and Memphis in order that officials may compare annexations of these cities with the 2,135 acres of new territory annexed to the city of Atlanta since January 1, 1924.

The population of Pittsburgh with that of the territory which was annexed to the city is only about 1,800 to the square mile, authorities state.

329 TECH SENIORS GRADUATE TODAY

several trees of the campus so that there will be no reason for all the guests of commencement not hearing all the exercises during the exercises. The program begins at 10 o'clock.

The invocation is to be by the Rev. Wade H. Boggs, pastor of Druid Hills Presbyterian church, followed by the reading of the list of prizes by H. H. Caldwell, registrar.

President Brittain confers the degrees, certificates, commissions in officers' reserve, etc., and Governor Harris, president of the board of trustees, makes the closing address to the 1929 graduates.

President A. E. Clift, of the Central of Georgia railway, arrived in Atlanta Sunday night for the commencement exercises. He will take part on the program with the delivery of more than a score of Central of Georgia certificates to co-operative students who during their school career have been part time employees on the Central Railway system.

The Central of Georgia employs nearly 200 such Georgia Tech students in the various mechanical phases of its big system.

It was still believed on the campus Sunday that former Governor Harris would regain his strength sufficiently to at least be present on the commencement program Monday morning.

Governor Harris is 84 years old, is the first and only president of the board, and has never before missed a commencement. Because of illness on Saturday he was unable to attend the annual meeting of the board of trustees.

Commencement exercises began Sunday morning with the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon by Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

The faculty and more than 200 cap-and-gown students attended.

Largest gains in students for the year have been made in the ceramic, cooperative engineering, and the evening school of commerce. Among the graduates in the evening school of commerce are six young women of Atlanta, Miss Dixie May Chisholm, Miss Sarah Drennon, Miss Lucille Johnson, Miss Alma Martin, Miss Mary Alice Mitchell, and Miss Lucille Merritt.

The commencement program of Monday morning begins at 10 o'clock with the long academic procession, marches from the Y. M. C. A. building on North avenue to the shaded platform in front of the library building in the middle of the campus.

A moment after Balcum had saddled and mounted the animal, the horse reared on his hind legs and fell backward on Balcum, the pommel of the saddle striking the man in the abdomen. Balcum is survived by a brother. He was an orphan.

REP. TINKHAM QUIZZES CLARENCE TRUE WILSON

Asks If Methodist Temperance Board Is Not in Active Politics.

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—A query as to whether the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals had filed a statement of its receipts and expenditures during the last political campaign was propounded to Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the organization, in a letter made public today by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts.

The question was one of a series asked by the Massachusetts member in a letter which he based upon a recent statement of Wilson that his organization maintained no lobby in Washington.

Tinkham said that the Methodist Episcopal church had erected the headquarters opposite the capitol and inquired if the board had not described the location as "strategic" because it was located "just opposite the senate wing of the capitol."

Among other questions, Tinkham inquired if Wilson or agents or servants of the Methodist Episcopal church had not opposed or recommended persons for appointment to federal offices or supported or opposed candidates for public office.

He asked if Wilson or agents of the board had not appeared before legislative committees in advocacy of opposition to legislation, and if the secretary and the board had not appeared before legislative committees in advocacy of money by senators and representatives from the Anti-Saloon League at a time when that organization was vigorously advocating legislation to congress.

He concluded by inquiring if the board had filed a statement of "its receipts and expenditure during the political campaign of 1928 covering its activities in behalf of a candidate for president, for congressional senators and representatives in congress, in like manner as in the case of the organization led by Bishop James Cannon, Jr."

"If not," he asked, "why not?"

Freak Accidents, No Casualties Sunday Auto Toll

Although Sunday's record was remarkably free from serious casualties a number of "freak" accidents in which much damage was done to the automobiles involved were reported to police.

John Harris, negro, of the rear of 111 Chapel street, late Sunday night was driving along Stewart avenue when at Gillette avenue his car collided with a standing auto occupied by W. O. Anderson, of a Dill avenue address, night superintendent of the city sanitary department. After hitting Anderson's car the negro's vehicle careened on to strike a large sedan being driven by G. H. Hawkins, of 887 Stewart avenue, the impact knocking Hawkins' auto against another automobile being operated by Miss C. N. Nolan, of 1001 Cathedral drive.

All four automobiles were quite badly damaged but all the occupants escaped injury. Harris was locked up by Patrolmen Chewing and Anderson and charged with driving while drunk and carrying concealed weapons.

An automobile driven by an unidentified negro started out of a garage belonging to S. T. Pigney, of 7 Melton street, at Martin and Clark streets. The driver escaped injury and ran from the scene but Ellette Daniel, a negro girl, of 99 Clark street, who was standing near by was cut by flying glass. Emmet Harvey, negro, was arrested by Call Officers Norwood and Evans some time later on suspicion when it was found that the car which struck the parked auto had been rented to Harvey. The negro denied having been the driver, saying that the rented car had been stolen from him.

J. E. Clayton, of 969 Crescent street, was charged with reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident following his arrest Sunday night at Whiteford and DeKalb avenues just after he had smashed his automobile heading against a telephone pole and ran into a building.

Evans, who arrested Clayton, reported that his automobile had collided with a car driven by Mrs. L. F. Johnson, of route 3, Atlanta, at S. Fair and Whiteford avenue only a few minutes before the accident at Whiteford and DeKalb.

At the time that Clayton ran his vehicle against the post he was being pursued by a number of cars, the drivers of which had seen him drive away from the first accident, the officers said.

EXPLORER BELIEVES FAWCETT MURDERED

Finds Compass, Pistol and Other Articles Owned by Party.

Buenos Aires, June 9.—(United News.)—Captain Alfred Morris, who has been searching the Brazilian jungles for a trace of the lost British explorer, Colonel P. H. Fawcett, has returned to Recife convinced that the Fawcett party fell into the hands of murderous natives, according to a dispatch to the newspaper La Prensa today.

Morris, contending that Fawcett, his son and a young English companion were killed, said he had purchased a compass, a revolver and other articles from the hands of the natives of the interior. He said these accessories probably belonged to Fawcett and were stolen by the bandits who killed him.

Fawcett, who had spent 18 years of his life in the wild territory of Brazil, started his last trip in 1925 to seek an ancient city which he believed would prove that South America was the cradle of civilization. He described the "white Indians" of the interior who had never penetrated from the jungle valleys and he was confident his quest would be successful.

The trio never returned. A searching party headed by Commander George B. Dyott made an unsuccessful attempt to penetrate the jungle and find remains of the party last year. Dyott was forced back by hostile natives.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, Spartan Mother, Dowager Of American Society, Dies

Fought World To Save Son, Meanwhile Giving Generously To Church and to Charity.

Pittsburgh, June 9.—(United News.) Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, a grand dame of American society, died today at her mansion, Oak Lawn, after a long illness. She was 90 years old.

For three generations Mrs. Thaw was one of the leading society women of the country. Proud and gracious, she endeavored herself to thousands of people by her wit, unostentatious charities.

She gave the nation a picture of serenity by the way in which she bore the terrible tragedy of the murder by her son, Harry Kendall Thaw, more than 20 years ago, of Stanford White. Thaw was at his mother's bedside when she died. So was the Countess de Perigny, her daughter—formerly Margaret Carnegie Thaw—who arrived here yesterday after a race across the Atlantic from her Paris home.

Knew Life's Every Vicissitude.

There was something which appealed to the imagination in the extraordinary scope of Mrs. Thaw's life. Everything, even to its span, seemed scaled larger than is usual. Great wealth, tragedy, unrelenting sorrows, appalling publicity—she conquered them all after bearing and rearing children to the number of seven.

The close of the Civil War found Mary Sibbet Copley an "old maid" as the term was applied then. She was 23, demure and almost sedate in her crinolines. Her one romance, in a period where she had made bridegrooms unusually scarce, was with William Thaw, a financier who saw a future in high-stacked steamboats and railroads. Thaw was a widower. In 1867—when Mary Copley was 28—they were married.

For a long period Mrs. Thaw's life was given over largely to bearing and rearing her seven children. Harry K. Thaw was born in 1870—three years after her marriage. As her children grew up and she found more time for other things, Mrs. Thaw began to interest herself more and more in charities—those of the private type—that gave assistance to persons without being heralded to the world. She was perhaps seeking—and apparently finding, for she never stopped her charitable work—an outlet for what she regarded as her declining years.

Built Church as Memorial.

Her husband died before any of the children reached a full maturity. He died in 1892, when Harry was 22. Mrs. Thaw was born in 1870—three years after her marriage. As her children grew up and she found more time for other things, Mrs. Thaw began to interest herself more and more in charities—those of the private type—that gave assistance to persons without being heralded to the world. She was perhaps seeking—and apparently finding, for she never stopped her charitable work—an outlet for what she regarded as her declining years.

Almost immediately Harry began to attract attention to the Thaw family. He made several trips to Europe between the ages of 21 and 34 and started Paris and other cities with his escapades. The newspapers were full of his dinner to the "100 most beautiful actresses in Paris," said to have cost him more than $50,000. Another Paris "shocker" was Harry's three-day entertainment of Prince Komatsu, brother of the Mikado of Japan, for which he hired the entire Moulin Rouge. This was said to have cost another $50,000. Mrs. Thaw gave no outward sign of being disturbed. It will be 23 years ago on June 25 that Mrs. Thaw began the last phase of her life. When she was 67 years old Harry shot and killed Stanford White on the old Madison Square Garden roof and every vestige of privacy was stripped from the aging dowager in her efforts, first to save her son from the executioner and then to retrieve him from various jails and asylums for the insane.

Saved Harry's Fortune.

The fight lasted for 18 years—from 1906 to 1924. Throughout the murder trial Mrs. Thaw became noted as one of the most devoted and loving mothers in the world. During the long seiges of court litigation, she battled unhesitatingly for his freedom and spent sums variously estimated at from two to four million dollars. When she had won and Harry Thaw was again a free man, she had incidentally conserved the remnants of his large fortune so well during the time he was in asylums that he "began life anew" with more than $1,000,000.

The Thaw trial and its reverberations never faded entirely from the newspapers but Mrs. Thaw continued her own serene life to its lingering end, holding always by her simple devotion the respect even of those who most bitterly attacked the usages of great wealth in defense of crime.

During the height of the tumult—in 1907—she rebuilt the memorial church to her husband, which had been struck by lightning. One of her favorite charities was the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, which she helped found.

The other founders died young. In 1925 she fell and broke her hip. That ended her public appearances. The gray-haired, kindly-eyed old woman remained a prisoner in the Thaw mansion in Beechwood boulevard. The "children" came home every year for Christmas reunions. Some of them, notably Harry, who she had guarded fondly, had heads nearly as white as her own. She died peacefully.

MIDSHIPMEN PAY TAMMANY COURT, RESEARCH SHOWS

Annapolis, Md., June 9.—(United News.)—Tammamy, it has just been learned, is honored openly by midshipmen at the U. S. naval academy here.

There is an old statue of an Indian on the academy campus. Incoming plebes for generations have been told the statue was of a supposed occult powers were of invaluable assistance at examination time. Countless numbers of knickknacks have been offered to the idol in quest of aid.

Old and weatherbeaten, Tecumseh was about ready for Davy Jones when he decided a bronze bust should be cast.

With announcement of this plan, his record was looked up to see why an Indian had been a figurehead on a U. S. ship and now occupied such a sacred spot in the hearts of navy men.

Behold!—the files revealed he was not Tecumseh at all, but Tammany, heroic chief of the Delawareans.

PRINCE AND COUNT LOST IN DESERT ON AUTO VOYAGE

Khartoum, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, June 9.—(AP)—Prince Ferdinand and Countess of Liechtenstein and Count de Almasy, of Hungary, were believed lost today in the desert between Wady-Halfa and Cairo. They left the former town, near the diamond contract of the Nile on June 3 in two automobiles with native guides and a mechanic. They had only 100 gallons of gasoline and have not been heard of since.

The Sudan government had discouraged the attempt to motor to the south because of the known dangers of the proposed desert route where the only landmarks are rocks that are often covered by sandstorms.

CROSSED ATLANTIC 7 TIMES IN SUB, DROWNS IN CREEK

Wilmington, Del., June 9.—(United News.)—Dennis J. Bradley, who crossed the Atlantic seven times in a submarine during the World War, was drowned here early this morning when he attempted to swim a creek 100 feet wide. Bradley had wagered Harry Travis that he could swim the stream, but disappeared when half way across. His body was recovered five hours later. Travis narrowly escaped death when he dived into the water trying to save his companion. He was helped out by other men.

Eastern Star Order To Hold Macon Meeting

Macon, Ga., June 9.—(AP)—Delegates began arriving here tonight for the 28th annual meeting of the grand chapter, Order of Eastern Star of Georgia.

The visitors were informally welcomed by the members of the local chapters.

Although the business sessions of the grand chapter will not open until Tuesday morning in the municipal auditorium, there will be a banquet at Hotel Danmore Monday night, which will be attended by grand lodge delegates and many visitors, it is expected. There will be committee conferences during Monday.

Mrs. Vesta Smith Brown, worthy grand matron, of Waycross, Ga., was one of the early arrivals. Mrs. Jessie M. Beach, associate grand matron, of Savannah, who is slated to become grand matron at this meeting, also was here tonight. Among the other grand lodge officers arriving during the night were Mrs. Rowena C. Ward, of Valdosta, grand secretary, and Mrs. Annie Bullock, Warm Springs, grand treasurer.

About 40 delegates had registered tonight. The balance of the delegates are expected early tomorrow.

TAFT QUILTS HOSPITAL WEDNESDAY MORNING

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Chief Justice Taft and his eight associates left the supreme bench—their pocket almost disposed of for the first time in recent history—are heading for cool spots to escape the capital's summer temperatures.

While awaiting opening of the fall term on the first Monday in October, the justices, in their various retreats, the justices will reflect serenely on their record, in marked contrast to the congestion prevalent in lower federal tribunals to which President Hoover's law enforcement commission is directing a large part of its attention.

Not a single case of national importance is waiting final decision, and the justices have only a few controversies to interrupt them while they devote their attention to the less arduous problems involved in fishing, golfing and other forms of recreation.

Chief Justice Taft arranged today to leave on Wednesday for his summer home at Murray Bay, Canada. He had hoped to depart tomorrow and reluctantly yielded to the wishes of his physician, who desires him to remain in the hospital here where he was taken Friday, two days longer for rest.

With his secretary, the chief justice today made incursions into his correspondence which accumulated during the last few days. He is reported fully recovered from the ill effects of his unusual exertions during his recent visit to Cincinnati. The hospital treatment of which he has received since this evening with the governor and garrison commander of Curacao, who had been carried off by an armed body of men alleged to be Venezuelan nationalists. The filibusters had landed in Venezuela some miles north of La Vela.

BANDITS SEIZE AMERICAN SHIP AND ARMY HEAD

Willemstad, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, June 9.—(AP)—The American steamship Maracaibo returned here this evening with the governor and garrison commander of Curacao, who had been carried off by an armed body of men alleged to be Venezuelan nationalists. The filibusters had landed in Venezuela some miles north of La Vela.

None of the Dutch officials were harmed in any way and were none the worse for their sudden trip to sea as prisoners.

The band, said to have been led by General Uchima, descended on the waterfront here suddenly last night, seized the Maracaibo and apparently took the officials aboard as hostages. For a time they were in complete control and several police officers were killed and wounded in attempts to suppress them. La Vela is a seaport in the province of Falcon, about 200 miles west of Caracas, the capital of Venezuela and southwest of Curacao.

M'BRIDE IS BITTER TOWARD 'WET' PRESS

Says Newspapers Magnify All Faults, Minimize Virtues of Dry Law.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, general secretary of the Anti-Saloon League of America, today issued a statement in which he said the "only unfavorable major factor" in the prohibition situation is "the enormous agitation against the law in a section of the metropolitan press."

"The power of the press to magnify every feature, misfortune or mistake in connection with prohibition, out of all proportion to its proper relation toward a great national reform, is rather disquieting," his statement said.

"Prohibition has nothing to lose by full and fair reporting of all facts, the bad as well as the good. It has so far survived the most intense and continuous publicity ever given any public question."

"But the very intensity of the attack is tending to defeat its purpose, because the people will lose faith in any newspaper whose methods are unfair."

Mr. McBride said that all other major factors are "more favorable right now than for many years past." His conclusions, he said, were confirmed by observers with whom he had conferred personally in every state east of the Mississippi river since Easter.

He declared President Hoover's attitude was having a favorable influence everywhere; that scores of federal officials once lax in their enforcement efforts have adopted a more aggressive policy; and that the appointment of the president's law enforcement commission was certain "to have a very helpful immediate effect in the matter of the trial and punishment of violators."

GIRL, BELIEVED KIDNAPED, FOUND IN FRIEND'S HOME

Baltimore, Md., June 9.—(AP)—Miss Laura Fields, 19, Washington college senior for whom search was begun Saturday when her abandoned automobile was located on a back road, was found in Baltimore late Saturday night. She was with friends.

A note in the girl's handwriting, telling of being forced out of her car by two men and two women, was tucked under the spark lever in the abandoned car.

The girl was believed to have attempted the hoax because of her failure to pass examinations.

Censorship Lifted.

Madrid, June 9.—(AP)—Premier Primo de Rivera today removed the Spanish censorship on news dispatches going abroad at the representations of the Associated Press. It was pointed out that prejudice might arise abroad if correspondents stationed here were not permitted to give full accounts of events rumored beyond the Spanish border.

NEW SHOE SOLES 10c INSTEAD OF $1.25

Inventor Offers Big Sample Free

An amazing new product has been invented by Dr. Mothershead which makes it possible for any man, woman, or even a child, to repair worn-out shoe soles in 3 minutes. The cost of repairing a pair of shoes by this remarkable new method is less than 10c. Actual users claim even better results than the old way which costs ten times as much. Re-Sole is simply spread over the old sole like butter on bread. It fills up holes, hardens and covers the sole with a tough, smooth surface that looks like leather and resists the hardest wear. It is waterproof, flexible and retains the comfort of the old shoe.

Mr. Mothershead is making an offer whereby anyone may secure a full size sample of this astonishing product (enough to resole 20 shoes) without cost. Simply write him at Suite 200FK, Garver Bldg., Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Mothershead is also making an attractive offer to agents by which they can make $10 to $15 a day on this fast selling new product. Be sure to write him today.—(adv.)

WORKERS FOR BLIND MEET THIS MORNING

Will Ask Greater Appropriations at Coming Session of Legislature.

With Fulton county's blind coroner, Paul Donahoe, presiding in his capacity as president of the organization, the Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind will meet in annual convention at 10 o'clock this morning at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Many leaders in this work are expected to attend the session, which probably will last through the greater part of the day. Luncheon will be served at noon and the deliberations continued following the luncheon program of speeches.

Chief among the topics to be discussed will be a bill to be presented at the forthcoming session of the Georgia legislature. The bill to provide for more adequate state appropriations to assist those afflicted with blindness to help themselves by learning trades or procuring gainful occupations. The creation by the state of a small factory, near Atlanta, where blind persons might make articles for sale in this and other cities, is one of the things which the association will probably urge.

CALIFORNIA PLANE BEGINS ATTEMPT TO BREAK RECORD

San Francisco, June 9.—(AP)—In an effort to establish a new refueling endurance flight record, three men took off from Mills field here this evening in the monoplane "San Francisco." In the cockpit were Colonel Harry Abbott and Sandy De Renzo, co-pilot. Handling the radio apparatus was James Warner, radio operator of the trans-Pacific flight plane, "Southern Cross."

The plane left the field at 6:08:27 p. m. A light gasoline load was carried at the takeoff and refueling operations were started shortly after the plane gained altitude.

Why People are using More Ice

EACH year the ice business grows in volume, because housewives are making more intelligent and adequate use of ice.

No longer is it considered economy to stint the use of ice. Women realize that it is just the opposite of economy to risk the spoilage of expensive food, to save a few cents' worth of ice.

Ice is an investment. Don't waste it in an inefficient or worn-out ice box. Have a good box—keep it one-half to two-thirds full all the time. Your food will stay fresh, taste better, and you will save money.

GIANT TOBACCO MERGER
ANNOUNCES FINANCINGUnited Stores Corporation
Will Control Three Large Chains.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—The newly-organized United Stores Corporation today announced plans for its acquisition, by an exchange of stock, of the Tobacco Products Corporation, United Cigar Stores Company of America and the Union Tobacco Company.

Incorporation of the United Stores Corporation yesterday in Delaware was considered the first step in the formation of a several hundred million-dollar tobacco and drug store chain.

Today's announcement was made in letters mailed by the three companies and the new corporation to stockholders of the companies to be taken over.

For five shares of Class A stock ($20 par value) of tobacco products, stockholders will receive one and one-half shares of 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock of the new company; three shares of common stock ($20 par value) may be exchanged for one share of Class A stock of the new company and a warrant exchangeable for a half share of its common.

United Cigar 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock may be exchanged on the basis of one share for one and one-half shares of $20 cumulative preferred stock of the new company; common stock ($10 par value) is to be exchanged on the basis of three shares for one share of United Stores Class A and a warrant exchangeable for a half share of the new company's common stock.

Union Tobacco stockholders will receive for each share of Class A stock one and a fourth share of United Stores Class A with warrants exchangeable for five-eighths of a share of the new corporation's common; three shares of Union Tobacco common may be traded for one share of United Stores common.

Offers regarding Tobacco Products stock exclude that owned by Union Tobacco; those applying to United Cigar Stores exclude stock owned by both the Union Tobacco and Tobacco Products.

Directors of United Stores will be W. A. Black, president of the Ogilvie Flour Mills; Wilbur L. Cummings, director of Gold Dust Corporation; Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada; R. W. Jameson, former chairman of the board of Dominion Stores, Ltd. (Canada); H. Hobart Porter, president of the American Water Works & Electric Co., Inc.; Thomas H. McInerney, president of National Dairy Products; George M. Moffett, vice president and director of Corn Products Refining Company; Frederick K. Morrow, director of the Gold Dust Corporation; and George K. Morrow, chairman of the board of the Gold Dust Corporation.

From this group will be chosen the principal executives.

United Stores plans to operate chain drug stores on a large scale and to manufacture and exploit the sale of certain popular brands of cigarettes, cigars and tobacco.

Later it expects to acquire other brands and to obtain substantial minority interests in several allied businesses, which are not named.

Tobacco Products Corporation now owns approximately 75 per cent of the common stock of United Cigar Stores and has been only a holding company since November of 1923.

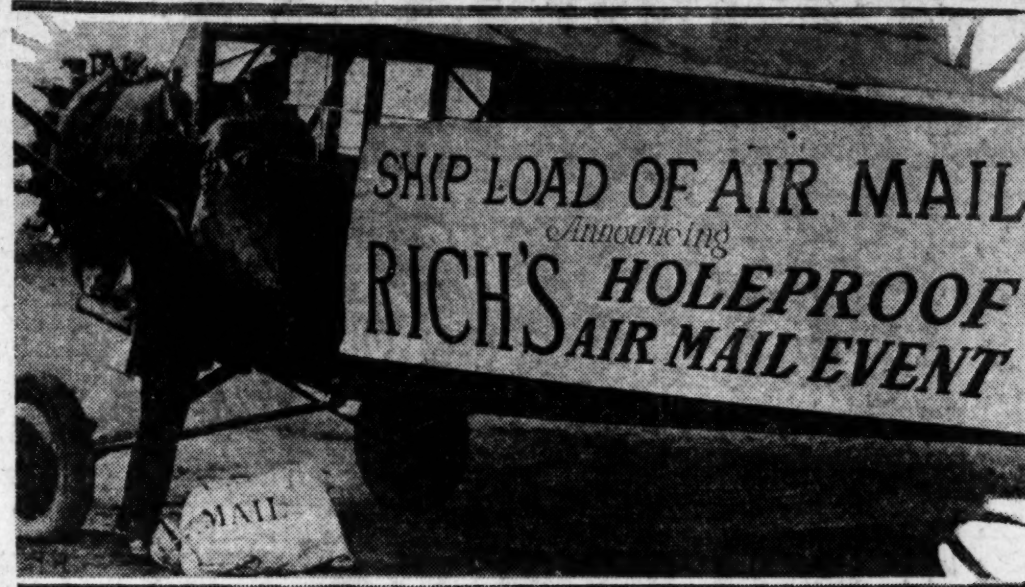

United Cigar Stores has a controlling interest in the Whelan Drug Co., Inc., and Nere Drug Stores, Inc., besides a large minority interest in Pennsylvania Drug Company, Inc.

With Tobacco Products it owns control of Happiness Candy Stores, Inc., and, with Schulte Retail Stores Corporation, controls Schulte-United Five-Cent-a-Dollar Stores, Inc.

Free State Victory.

Dublin, June 9.—(AP)—A government victory was scored in a by-election in Sligo and Leitrim when General Sean McEoin was returned with 28,598 votes against 24,621 polled by Eamon Duggan, the republican candidate. The government regarded the election as a test of confidence in connection with the question of payment or non-payment of land purchase annuities to the British government.

Plane Brings 10,000 Commercial Letters Here

Ten thousand Atlantans today will receive air mail letters from the New York makers of Holeproof hosiery calling attention to a big hosiery sale event to be staged Tuesday and Wednesday at 'Rich's, Inc.,' local department store. In the picture above Sol Rubin, merchandise manager of Rich's, is shown welcoming the plane with its load of air mail letters at Candler field. ALBANIA'S SOVEREIGN
IS WORKING MONARCH

Tirana, Albania, June 9.—(AP)—King Zog, the first, Albania's self-made sovereign, although on the throne less than a year has won the title of the hardest working monarch in the world.

Eighteen hours of unremitting toil daily with only two minutes of exercise every two hours in the seclusion of his white stucco palace here, is what he considers an ordinary day's work. The king gets up with the mountain eagles at six, sips a cup of Turkish coffee, puffs a cigarette and plunges immediately into work. With the exception of a few minutes visit to his mother to whom he is deeply attached, he never leaves his desk until midnight.

His only diversion is occasional play in the closely guarded palace grounds with his favorite dogs. In the evening the long labors are broken only when the king plays his favorite American melodies on his American phonograph procured for him by Minister Hart.

The Albanian monarch's friends say he lacks the faculty of delegating tasks to others, even to his ministers. Therefore he insists on doing everything personally and running the country virtually single handed.

But if he governs Albania on a one-man basis he has anything but the appearance of a dictator. His soft features, aquiline nose, delicate mouth, blonde hair, tiny chestnut moustache, striking dignity and reserved aristocratic air suggest rather a French or Austrian nobleman than a ruler of a country where he never had to wear a hand or furrow a brow by daily toil. Europe's newest sovereign, however, is no dilliant or perfunctory king. He rules his million subjects with a firm and inflexible but just hand and sets the kingdom a shining example by his ceaseless toil.

Although Zog was converted virtually over night by his adherents from an ordinary tribal chieftan to the power and glory of a monarch, those who are privileged to meet him are struck by his regal manner, pervading charm, graciousness and geniality. When the Associated Press correspondent visited the palace today he found the king petting and playing with a group of huge mountain eagles which he tamed himself.

"As Albania is a country of high crags and peaks," the king said smilingly in excellent German, "we have almost as many eagles here as you have sparrows in America. Like eagles the world over, the Albanian eagle is proud, defiant, courageous and independent. Therefore we made it the symbol of our national liberty just as the United States. My people bring them to me in such numbers as gifts that I now have enough to export some to America. Then laughing the king added, "But I know the American people already have enough eagles and enough liberty."

PARTLY CLOUDY AND SOME WARMER,
TODAY'S FORECAST

Atlantans will do well to carry umbrellas, raincoats, rubbers and the rest of the moisture-resisting paraphernalia when they start for work this morning because while the Washington weather bureau will not come right out and say rain it doesn't say fair either. Partly cloudy with possible showers and slowly rising temperatures seems to be the nearest they can come to a promise.

Sunday's intermittent showers came down enough to bring a total of 42.2 of an inch of precipitation. In addition they practically ruined a large but still definitely undetermined number of summer frocks and hats by surprising the fair wearers in the midst of picnics or tennis games. The temperatures ran from 66 degrees to 82 degrees and should do slightly better today.

MEXICAN CATHOLICS
EAGERLY AWAIT PARLEY

Archbishop Ruiz and President Gil To Talk Reconciliation.

Mexico City, June 9.—(AP)—Mexican Catholics tonight waited in all eagerness for the conference scheduled for tomorrow between President Emilio Portes Gil and Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz which many hope will result in reopening the churches closed for three years.

The archbishop arrived from Washington last night and remained in strict seclusion at the home of friends. He had even taken the precaution to leave the train which brought him from the border at a station 25 miles from the capital to avoid any public demonstrations.

Coincident with his arrival, several Mexican bishops issued statements in their dioceses urging the people to abandon hatred and live in peace and harmony and assuring them "all the visions and religious differences have ended."

No official statement on the actual state of the negotiations or the methods by which solution of the long-standing problem will be sought was expected before the conference of the principals tomorrow.

Crackers at Top In Week's Play

McGraw's Team Wins Five Out of Six During Week Just Closed.

By William J. Chipman, Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—If any cause exists for complaint regarding the showing of the Pirates in the week ending last night, none yet has been received from anyone residing in the vicinity of Forbes field. The Giants hit the National league high spots to the satisfaction of New York fans, taking five out of six in the seven days, but the Pirates went McGraw one better by snatching five straight, the best performance in either major circuit.

250 To Compete At Sandwich

Sandwich, England, June 9.—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty golfers, entered in the British amateur championship, gained a moral victory today—only one rainstorm interrupted their practice for the titular event which starts tomorrow over the St. George's course.

Weather prospects are better than during the last week, but there's promise of the usual English capricious winds to worry the players over the long and trying homeward nine-hole journey at St. George's.

The amateur was scattered over the famous old Cinq Ports district today but most of them remained at St. George's. John Dawson, of Chicago, as chief American, among a dozen entrants from the United States, put the final polish on his shots along with the native-born favorites, T. P. Perkins, Cyril Toller, Roger Wethered and Ernest Hollender. Douglas Grant, the former Californian who lives in the States, was another who did some last-minute practicing.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

JENNY WREN IS INQUISITIVE.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Who seeks the best will look around. For only thus may it be found.

—Jenny Wren.

Of all the feathered folk none is brighter-eyed or more inquisitive than Jenny Wren. She is a busy little body, as everybody knows. Mr. Wren would be just as busy if he didn't have to take time to sing. But he just has to keep stopping to pour out his happiness in song. Just as soon as the Wrens arrived at Farmer Brown's, Jenny Wren became the busiest person anywhere about. There were houses to inspect and Jenny made a thorough business of it. She inspected them all, inside and out, and did it more than once.

Now, Farmer Brown's boy had put up two houses especially for the Wrens. The little doorways were just big enough for Jenny Wren, and you know birds that build in houses usually like doorways just the right size. Jenny discovered these houses at once, and both she and Mr. Wren went in and out of them many times. Jenny was not satisfied with inspecting empty houses, but watched her chance to visit the house Mr. and Mrs. Bluebird were occupying. Mrs. Winsome Bluebird saw her coming out and flew at her in a fury. But Jenny didn't mind. She popped into one of the little houses meant for her and chuckled while Mrs. Bluebird scolded outside.

"Shall we take both houses?" asked Mr. Wren.

"You might take some sticks into one house and I'll make sure of that in case another family of Wrens happens along," said Mrs. Wren. "I'll make up my mind later about where we'll build."

So Mr. Wren began carrying little sticks into one of the houses. He carried other things, too. He found some rusted bits of chicken wire and he carried these in. He took in two or three nails which his bright eyes spied. That doesn't sound like very good nesting material, but these sticks and bits of wire were merely for the foundation. Mr. Wren and Jenny Wren believe in a good foundation. All the time Mr. Wren was singing. When he found a stick, he would stop and sing. Then he would hurry over to the little house with it and when he came out he would sing again.

Meanwhile Jenny Wren was here,

"What, my dear, is keeping you so long?" said he.

there and everywhere. Finally she left the Old Orchard. There wasn't a knot hole in one of the trees that she hadn't peeped into. She flew over to Farmer Brown's house and she looked that over as thoroughly as she had looked over the little houses. She examined the barn. Her bright eyes peered into every crevice and crack. To watch her you would have thought that there wasn't a suitable place for a Wren home anywhere about.

By and by Mr. Wren flew over to join her. "What, my dear, is keeping you so long?" said he. "I should think you would want to get that nest ready."

"I do," said Jenny.

"Then why don't you come over and get busy?" Mr. Wren demanded.

"I don't believe in acting too quickly and being sorry afterward," retorted Jenny.

"But there are two perfectly good houses over in the Old Orchard waiting for us," said Mr. Wren.

"Not, but, but," stammered Jenny. "Don't you suppose I know that as well as you do? Those houses are all right, but if there is a better place for a nest, I want to find it. Now you go back and keep busy and leave things to me."

With this Jenny once more began to flit here and there, pecking and peering into everything. A more inquisitive small person it would be hard to imagine.

FRUIT FLY WAR PUTS A CRIMP IN BOOTLEGGING

Nashville, Tenn., June 9.—(AP)—The Mediterranean fruit fly has cost Nashville's "silk-stocking" bootlegging ring more than $10,000 in the past three days. It has brought about the arrest of two alleged members of a central states smuggling ring and brought about the seizure of several thousand quarts of liquor and the discovery of a cache in a garage on Peabody college campus.

State and local enforcement officers acting upon information that fruit fly search on the borders of Florida had virtually eliminated smuggling of liquor by automobiles, have been removing trucks which contain liquor addressed to fictitious names. The trucks have been lined with galvanized iron and sealed to prevent leakage.

Nearly a dozen such trucks have been confiscated as they neared their destination in Nashville.

JERE WELLS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT; INJURIES SLIGHT

MAN SUES CITY AFTER SON'S PONY STRIKES POST

Abbeville, Ga., June 9.—(Special.) O. L. Smith has filed suit against the city of Abbeville and the South Georgia Power Company in Wilcox superior court for the sum of $12,000. He alleges that his 10-year-old son, Harris, was riding a Shetland pony down Broad street and that the pony shied at a passing automobile and ran against a pole of the South Georgia Power Company, breaking the boy's leg and causing much pain.

He alleges that the actual damages are $2,000 and the expectancy damages are $10,000. He says that the power company was negligent in that they placed their poles in the middle of Broad street, and the city was negligent in that they allowed the power company to so place their poles. The suit is filed for the July term of Wilcox superior court.

GEORGIA PROH MAN TRANSFERRED TO MICHIGAN

Thomasville, Ga., June 9.—(Special.)—J. A. Cobb, of Thomasville, attached to the federal forces in Georgia for enforcement of prohibition, left here Saturday night for Detroit, having been assigned to work with the extra forces assigned to make a drive against rum-runners along the Canadian border, in the Detroit area.

Cobb is well known in law enforcement circles in this territory. Up to about eighteen months ago he worked in Thomas county, as assistant to J. C. Stewart, who was for several years agent of this county for prohibition enforcement. When Stewart was removed from his position here he went immediately with the federal forces, and Cobb went with him.

Some Passing Observations

Editor's Note: Dr. Dunbar Roy left Atlanta June 1, for Richmond, Va., his first stop en route to New York, from whence he sails June 15, with Mrs. Roy on the Conte Biancamano for Spain. During Dr. Roy will write special letter to The Constitution from points of interest during his travels. The first of the series is published below.

BY DR. DUNBAR ROY.

The Seaboard railway is certainly to be commended for the excellence of the service rendered its patrons. It has been more than a year since the writer travelled over this system, and it seems to him that the stations, rolling stock and general equipment have decidedly improved. The only criticism to be made is that in reference to the Pullmans which it carries and this criticism is in a large measure applicable to most of the southern railroads. It is this: That the Pullman Company relegates to the south the majority of its old and worn-out cars, furnishing to the east and northwest the newest types of their modern construction. It seems to the writer that southern patrons are deserving of just as good cars as any other part of the country and that railway officials should see that we are not the recipients of these worn-out Pullmans. This is not only applicable to the Seaboard but other southern lines.

Passing through Petersburg, Va., reminds one of the fact that this city is one of the oldest and most antique looking in the Old Dominion.

From the car window, it looks just as it did 20 years ago, although the center of the town may show some modern changes. The historic James river upon whose banks it is situated, was the same muddy stream—a counterpart of our own Chattahoochee, while the old churches with tall spires remind one that church architecture has changed with the present-day architectural advancement.

A strange sight greets the eye along the railway as one enters and leaves the station of Petersburg. Wooden signs with Biblical quotations are placed at intervals along the way such as "Jesus said we must be born again." "Paul says owe no man." Perhaps it was at this very spot that our wise old Jack Smith of Atlanta obtained the same quotation which was placed on the "House That Jack Built."

Richmond always gives a pleasing impression as it comes into view on the high cliffs beyond the river. It also has the same appearance as of long ago, although the numerous mills and tall buildings of substantial structure indicate the progressive character of its people. Richmond is a city pleasing to the visitor's eye and there are few tourists, either from the north or the south who do not wish to remain for many days in her midst. While not growing as rapidly perhaps as Atlanta, yet its buildings strike one as being of a more substantial character. It is now constructing a magnificent new hotel, the John Marshall, immediately in the business section of Franklin street which indicates that they expect much transient patronage in the years to come.

Speaking of hotels reminds the writer that one will find none more beautiful and attractive than is exemplified by the Hotel Jefferson. The architect certainly adapted the building to the topography of the terrain and in no wise does one feel that he is shut in for the lack of breathing space.

James Harrison, the head waiter in the dining room, told the writer that he had occupied this position for the last 15 years and that he started as a waiter when the hotel was opened in 1865, returning when it was reopened after the fire of 1907. All of the waiters seem to belong to the old type of the southern colored race, many of them having gray hair and manners indicative of good breeding. Think of any waiter remaining with a hotel in Atlanta for 15 years!

THE UNKISSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS.
Joy Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley street, is crushed by a letter from her fiancé, Geoffrey Ford, a well known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Preoccupied with her own trouble she fails to notice that Dr. Travers seems troubled, too. Towards the end of the day he tells her that he has just lost a great sum of money through an unscrupulous solicitor and she will be forced to give up his house in Harley street.

Dr. Locke, a tenant, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a comfortable villa in the south of France which he cannot take on, and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch in the plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. To his partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post, Rex turns a deaf ear.

Joy, who has been listening to the doctor's colloquy, suddenly sees a method of escape for her and she asks Dr. Travers if he will marry her on a business arrangement. The doctor is stunned by her suggestion and finally asks her why she made it. She tells him that she is badly in need of another job, although her real reason is that she has Geoffrey read of her engagement to another man.

The doctor broods over the change his altered circumstances will have on his young nephew and ward, Percival Arthur Fitter. Finally he decides to take Joy at her word and they enter into an agreement to marry on a strictly business basis. Immediately after the ceremony Rex, Joy and Percival arrive on to the south of France. Joy keeps house for her husband and Percival Arthur has the time of his life and Rex becomes interested in each other.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII. THE FORDS ARRIVE.

A slight smile touched Rex's handsome mouth.

"He mused, forgetful of the night's anxiety.

He who for many working years had regarded women as so much delicate natural machinery found himself going back to a yet more primitive view. Women were, after all, clay, which is a soft, formless substance until moulded to beauty and use by the hands of men, who, after all, are the world's sculptors, builders, masters. "Clay left lying in its dormant state was not the good of that? Some form it had to take! Wasn't it now time for this pretty Joy—this nominal wife of his—to be taken and moulded into something real? Travers thought he knew fairly accurately what satisfactory and classic model she must follow.

"Dash it! . . . we can't have any more of this nonsense.

She doesn't hate me. I'll make her like staying with me all night!"

He stopped pacing up and down and stared from the open window at the pale sky, the first streaks of dawn.

"Son. . . Why not? Why not?"

He saw no reason.

Geoffrey Ford, with his mother, had arrived in the south of France.

On the day following the Travers' midnight vigil at Mon Plaisir, the Fords were sitting outside the cafe close to the rooms at Monte Carlo. Appearing from under the canopy of canvas over a small table, all you saw of Geoffrey was a slim, nervous hand holding a long glass of gin-laced lemon drink, and of his mother just the brim of a fragile hat.

There they were—absurdly young looking mother, staring as if in search of a special face among the passing crowds; son, slight and dapper dark in his white silk suit, looking with some concern upon his parent. Little Mrs. Ford showed that something had happened to her.

Retribution would be the name given by some people to the something that had befallen little Mrs. Ford.

"In those stifling rooms?"

"Mums, you don't want to go in and gamble, do you?"

"Care to take a turn on the terrace and look at the yachts in the bay?"

"And the pigeons being shot? It makes me sick!"

"Stay here?"

"The hand's too noisy, and—O! How d'you do? When did you come over? . . . Marvellous to see you. . . where are you staying? . . . and the rest of the record to passing acquaintances. One decorative youth whom Pansy apparently had not seen hung back from his party to ask if Mrs. Ford had forgotten him. Pansy gave him a brilliant smile, whilst refusing him her eyes or any other answer. The very young man murmured that he had got the Spindrift at Cannes; Pansy asked if it were a car, was told with a reproachful look that she was the yacht, exclaimed absently, "A yacht?" but softened this with a glance which might or might not have been meant for the Spindrift's owner, who was left to fade out while his enlaver turned back to her son.

"Mums, didn't you recognize your boy friend? Thought you'd promised to go and have tea on his blessed yacht if he brought her over? Might have been something to do now."

Pansy sighed impatiently that she didn't want to do anything or go anywhere. Unless she could find some shady cave and go to sleep in it until her hair was streaky white and she had stopped caring what color it was! And what had happened to bring Pansy Ford to this frame of mind and this part of the world before the London season was over?

Cherchez l'homme.

The man in the case was one of those early loves who have a way of turning up again late—in a woman's life—long after she imagined him forgotten with all his yays, that early love comes back. He comes sometime in dreams, in echoes. "Good-bye, child, how you're going to regret me!" Sometimes he comes in the guise of another man of the same type, and this man wonders to hear her utter a sudden laugh at something he said that was not meant to be funny; wonders to see in her eyes a sudden willing up over something that was nothing to cry about? Wonders to feel her give sudden vivid response to some light, half-absent caress of his. Memories—echoes—reminders. . .

But it was not like this that this lover of her girlhood returned to Pansy Ford. He came in the flesh—a minimum of the flesh, since he was one of those lean, wiry, aquiline soldiers, hard as nails, without a superfluous half ounce on him, who would seem to be irresistible to these little ultra-feminine, pampered, men's women. When (three weeks ago, now) he leaped out of the shadow of the Hurlingham elms to greet Pansy Ford, who was then with a party to watch the polo, she turned pale and rosy under her subtle makeup, and cried, "No! You? So much in the manner of the girl fresh from school she had been on their first meeting, that she had had hastily to reassemble all the social sense and manner learnt in those thirty hard years before she could add, "How amazingly absurd this is. I thought you were killed in the South African war! How terribly funny to see you here, Jim! Imagine your remembering me again!"

"You thought I could forget—yesterday afternoon at the garden party?" (They had met there in eighteen hundred and ninety-odd.)

"Ridiculous! Why, this is my son, Geoff, my angel, here's somebody I used to be crazy in love with." (Nothing so dependable as the truth, whoever recognizes it.) "In love with before ever you were born! What is your rank, Jim? General? Colonel? Col. Hay-Molyneux."

"How do you do, sir?"

"How do you do? Handshakes, five minutes of chat about the ponies, the gorgeous weather for England, the length of his leave, before he leaped off again to join other friends.

"Two blue-gray twinkles shined by a beak, a skeleton dressed up by an extraordinarily adequate tailor, plus a Piffer, the—that was Geoffrey's comment in his note-book on Colonel Hay-Molyneux of the Indian army who had brought a look Geoffrey had never before noticed to his mother's assured little face. Was this going to lead to something? After several more meetings in town with this old admirer of Pansy's he hoped so. "Personally I like ee type-la," noted Geoffrey; "so utterly without anything in common with the little woman they'd be bound to make each other happy, I think. But does Hay-Molyneux share the Ford view? Difficult to say."

For he was twinkling, attentive and noncommittal, one of those invincibles who put the barrage of chaff between the world and what they mean. His technique was that of telling the woman, "But mums! My heart lies in shivers at your feet"—accompanied by a look of which a woman could make nothing. Was it pure razzing? Or was it the drama of being passionately in love, so as to conceal the fact that behind all the acting lurks a residue of reality? When he said, "Yes, but look here, my jolly old leave's up. I've got to sail on the 16th, and what have I seen of you, Pansy, after all these years that the locusts have eaten?—a minute at Hurlingham. One dance, one afternoon visit to your cottage, one hour in a punt and Tony Scrogg's dinner party. Not good enough, m'dear. Not to be borne! Don't you agree? We've got to have days somewhere—days!" Pansy Ford, who was accustomed to manage a man with one hand while driving with the other, so to speak, was taken at a disadvantage. She could only falter, "Oh yes—not a bad idea. But—er—when?" then grind her teeth over the gaffe.

What Price Virtue?

"A population of 500,000 by 1932" is Atlanta's slogan. Let's all pull together for a Greater Atlanta.

The Constitution's Weekly Business Review

EDITED BY M. D. GLEASON

There is hardly a need or a want that cannot be filled in Atlanta's stores and factories.

Case Threshing Machine Co. Announces Change of Name

The world-famous old concern, the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Company, Inc., of Racine, Wis., has just announced a change in its corporate name. Henceforth, the organization will be officially known as the J. I. Case Company, Inc. There will be no change in the personnel or established policies of the institution.

Recently Case acquired all outstanding rights to the use of the names "Case" and "J. I. Case" on plows, harrows and certain other farm tools, and now has the exclusive right to the use of the names "J. I. Case" and "Case" on all farm machinery and implements. Now there is only one Case organization, the J. I. Case Company, Inc.

This change in name was deemed necessary due to the fact that the company has outgrown the name given it a great many years ago, when its principal product was threshing machines. From the beginning, the line of products steadily expanded, until now it includes a full line of farm operating equipment, so the words "threshing machine" in its corporate name no longer indicates adequately the classes of product it manufactures and sells.

The most recent expansion took place during the past year when Case acquired the implement business and factories of the Emerson-Brantingham Company, of Rockford, Ill. This brings under the Case banner one of the oldest and most favorably-known lines of farm tillage seeding, haying and harvesting machines.

For nearly a century, Case threshing equipment has held a position of outstanding leadership. Since the year 1842, when Jerome Iman Case laid the foundation of the giant manufacturing concern which bears his name, the company has always been a pioneer. The Case organization pioneered the development of farm or steam traction engines. They gave motive power to the gas engine by designing and building in the year 1892 the first gas tractor of which there is any record. This company also built tractors as early as 1913 that met with instant success because they embodied most of the practical features found in the tractors so popular all over the country today.

The Case Company was a pioneer in the change from wood to steel in building threshers, and fully developed this type years before other manufacturers did so.

The Case Company claims to be the first company in the industry to improve farm machinery by making extensive use of light, strong steel stampings and forgings in place of heavy cast iron parts. Likewise, Case was the first to adopt adjustable

M. D. Smith Tent & Awning Co. Is Enjoying Busy Season

R. L. YORK TO REOPEN HIS NEW REX TODAY

Robert L. York today will reopen his soft drink, lunch, cigar and candy counters at 109 Pryor street, N. E., after having closed the past three months on account of fire and alterations.

In his new place Mr. York presents to the public one of the most pretentious establishments of its kind to be found anywhere in the south. The fixtures and equipment are more costly than is seen in similar places in other large southern cities and the whole place presents an inviting appearance.

Mr. York prides himself upon having an efficient organization of capable men to render polite service to his customers, and he extends a welcome to all former patrons, new customers and strangers in Atlanta to drop in at their convenience and look over his new place.

In his new place Mr. York is installing a modern radio with a loud speaker and he invites all who do not have the opportunity to enjoy radio programs to come in and "listen in" whenever they feel so inclined.

William Beckman, who has been with Mr. York nearly 20 years, will be in charge of the soft drink and lunch counter. He joins Mr. York in inviting home folks, visitors and strangers to call in and look over the new place.

These are busy times at the M. D. Smith Tent and Awning Company, for in addition to awning work the concern is at the busiest season of the year for large and small tents.

This firm has always been noted for the good tents it makes. These tents may be seen in every state in the union. It is not an uncommon thing to see express men loading large show or gospel tents to go to the Pacific coast states.

What has always been a factor in this old, reliable firm is the quality of the merchandise it makes and sells. Take a little thing like the thread used in the making of tents and awnings. There are three grades, poor, medium and extra good. This firm could save considerable money in a year if it used the medium thread, but it only uses the extra good, and that is why its awnings, tents, tarpaulins and other canvas products last so long and give such satisfactory service.

This firm is the originator of gospel tents. Mr. Smith himself making the first over 40 years ago to preach in north Georgia. Since that time traveling ministers and evangelists have come to this firm from all over the country when in need of new or second hand gospel tents. The company also has any size tent the tourist, fisherman, construction crew or private family may need. These tents can be rented reasonably.

In the awning department all salesmen are busy measuring homes and buildings in all parts of Atlanta and near-by towns. Awnings can add so much to the appearance of a home all the year around and give so much comfort on the days when needed. They are a good investment at any time and a ring at the Smith Company's new phone, 137 3807, will bring a courteous response and a salesman with his samples and prices.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR CASE OF AGNES BYRD

Waycross, Ga., June 9.—(Special.) The Georgia supreme court has set Monday, June 17, as the date for the hearing of arguments in the case of Mrs. Agnes Byrd, Pierce county woman under sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of her husband, Ira Byrd. Arguments in the case of F. P. "Pal" Brandon, convicted and sentenced on the same charge as Mrs. Byrd, also will be heard.

Both defendants are in jail at Blackshear, where three other persons are held awaiting trial in connection with the same murder. The untired defendants are Lawton Dixon, Levy Smith and Dan Tyre.

Representing Mrs. Byrd before the supreme court will be S. F. Memory, of Blackshear, while the state will be represented by Solicitor-General Allen B. Spence, of Waycross.

Rhodes-Haverty Building To Have Venetian Blinds

R. M. Callaway and Son, well-known Venetian blind, window screen, metal weather strip, and radiator shield men of 1177 West Peachtree street, N. W., announce that they have secured the contract to install 700 Venetian blinds in the new Rhodes-Haverty building.

The order, it is said to be the largest of its kind ever received in the southeast. The building owners in selecting this high-grade Venetian blind, will have the last word in an inside blind, a make that is popular with leading architects of this country.

With these Venetian blinds, which are made by the Bostwick-Goode Company, of Norwalk, O., this handsome new building will have splendid offices where the morning sun will not bother the office worker, for these blinds catch the rays of the sun and break them up into a soft mellow light that is restful to the eyes.

Victorian blinds on Atlanta's tallest building will also allow the fresh outside air to circulate a little, and as occupants of the rooms desire and will add much to each office, making it comfortable so far as day-light and ventilation are concerned.

Victorian Venetian blinds are being installed in many of the newest office buildings, apartment houses, hotels, hospitals, court houses, and public utility buildings in all parts of the country.

The Ohio makers are pleased with the large number of homes, offices and public buildings their Atlanta representatives secure orders for, and the local firm, which have represented Venetian blinds for many years in this territory, is well pleased to handle a product that has so many advantages as Venetian Venetian blinds.

SAVANNAH TO GET 5 NEW AUTO BUSES

Savannah, Ga., June 9.—(P)—Five automobile buses to be used by the Savannah Electric and Power Company on its Duffin Park street railway line, and which are to take the place of the present electric line on that route, are now on their way to Savannah from Kent, Ohio, and are expected to arrive the latter part of the week.

These buses will be the first substitution here of an already established rail route in the city, all other bus lines having been newly created where no rails had been heretofore laid. Establishment of another local and express line of buses is now pending before city council and will likely be determined at its next meeting on June 15.

BAINBRIDGE MEN TO ATTEND MEET

Bainbridge, Ga., June 9.—(Special.)—Roy R. Mendor, manager Bainbridge tobacco warehouse; M. L. Mayes, secretary chamber of commerce, and E. R. Nix will attend the annual field tobacco meeting at Coastal Plains experiment station, in Tifton, Tuesday, June 11. Great interest is being manifested here in behalf of the coming season on sale of tobacco, which is being rapidly gathered.

Sparta Lions Favor Highway Bond Measure

Sparta, Ga., June 9.—(Special.)—At the meeting of the Sparta Lions' Club Friday the members unanimously agreed to have a speaker come here at an early date from the joint committee for highway bonds. The majority of the Lions were in favor of a state bond issue.

It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that the "pay-as-you-go" plan of building highways had reached the limit and a better and faster way of getting paved roads was desired. The club will sponsor the meeting and will advertise it so that a good crowd will be present at the time.

The sentiment over Hancock county seems to be also in favor of the bond issue and when the movement is put here at a vote of the people no doubt the county will go over big in favor of the new order of things. Numbers of friends of the former highway chairman in this county, who have been against bonds, are now strongly in favor of them and will push the progressive movement in Hancock.

THREE '30 CONVENTIONS FOR THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., June 9.—(Special.) Designation of Thomasville as the meeting place for the 1930 convention of the County Officers Association, of Georgia, made at the meeting in Brunswick, this week, gives this town a tally of three for conventions for the coming year. Pean Growers of Georgia and Florida selected this place for their 1930 convention and the date is contingent upon the date for the 1930 Thomasville rose show.

Delegates to the last meeting of the Garden Clubs of Georgia also selected Thomasville for their 1930 meeting.

Those attending the Brunswick convention from here were Judge Roscoe Luke, of the state court of appeals, and his son, Stephens Luke; Sheriff Gordon Davis, County Tax Receiver Fred Norton, County Commissioner Claude Roundtree.

SENATE TO RESUME FARM DEBATE TODAY

Democrats Called to Meeting To Strengthen Lines on Debentures.

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—With the Hoover farm relief bill facing a doubtful decision this week in the senate, the administration was making preparations today, nevertheless, to bring before the house a resolution appropriating the money to carry out the proposed stabilization of agriculture.

A resolution appropriating the $200,000,000 authorized by the farm relief measure, with $150,000,000 to be available immediately probably will be put in shape this week by the house appropriations committee for early action.

tion in the event the senate approves the pending farm legislation.

However, the stiff opposition which broke forth yesterday in the senate to the debenture farm legislation leaves the outcome doubtful.

Leaders of the group favoring debentures, however, were determined to overcome the administration's move for approval of the farm bill until the house has voted on their proposal and they claim the outcome in doubt.

Robinson Calls Meeting.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, has called a party meeting for tomorrow at which an effort will be made to keep intact the almost solid membership which voted originally for debenture and the indications were that the republican independent group likewise had shifted only slightly from its position in favor of the plan.

All groups maintained that the vote on the farm bill would be close with one or two votes likely to decide the issue.

The government crop report was held by many farm leaders to be a doubtful factor in the debate on the export debenture controversy. Administration leaders are of the opinion that the report demonstrated the absolute necessity of enacting a farm bill at once so the proposed bill could begin to function without delay.

A number of farm leaders, including Representative Hagen, of Iowa, chairman of the house agriculture committee, contended that an upward price movement would be certain to follow the announcement by the board that it intended to carry out the provisions of the stabilization and marketing bill immediately. Some leaders regarded the crop report as an "ultimatum" to congress to agree on a farm bill without delay.

With the vote in the senate admittedly close both the administration and the debenture group kept a careful check of its members so that a margin of strength could be registered Tuesday when a vote on the farm bill probably will be taken.

The debenture group has been heartened by the greater part of the shipstead, of Minnesota, from the Baltimore hospital in which he has been ill. It is not known as yet, however, whether the senator will be well enough to be present in the senate to vote on the farm bill. Senator Shipstead's presence would offset the absence of Senator Black, of Alabama, who is ill.

4 PERSONS KILLED WHEN MAN DROPS EXPLOSIVE PARCEL

Copenhagen, June 9.—(AP)—Four persons were killed and seven injured at Galsved, Maesjo, Sweden, when a customer in an ironmonger's store dropped a parcel containing a quantity of nitrocellulose. The greater part of the contents of the store was blown into the street, the walls collapsed and the building instantly burst into flames. The bodies of the victims were found in the debris.

The body was found at the Hyde street beach where the San Francisco wharf line begins and with swimming distance from the shore taken by the steamship Admiral Benson when that craft, which carried Tallman put in here from San Pedro on Wednesday night.

While police boats started searching the bay for the missing head and arm, search inspection revealed that the body was weighted down with two five-pound pieces of lead and an "automobile chain."

San Francisco, June 9.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified man with the head and arm torn away from striking an object in the sea, probably a ship propeller, and answering the description of William Tallman, missing ship operator, sought on charges of the murder of Mrs. Virginia Patten in Los Angeles was washed ashore from Key Franks bay today.
